

I would like to offer my full support of the Learning Resource Program and encourage the expansion of the program to reach more Fenwick students. The guided study hall was an invaluable resource for our second son as he entered his first year at Fenwick...Time management and specific assistance in some classwork on a small-scale basis from a trusted advisor helped our son adapt to the rigor of high school work. More importantly, Mr. Kmiecik provided guidance for our son on effective ways to communicate with teachers and advocate for himself. He was responsive to our son's concerns, yet always offered specific suggestions and action steps that he could take to improve the situation.

The Learning Resource Program has also provided us, as parents, a specific contact person who understands our son's learning needs and provides feedback on how we can tailor his Fenwick experience to maximize his success. Ms. David offers expertise on classroom and testing accommodations in general and as it relates to Fenwick. Furthermore, she works as a team with the class counselor to advise on our son's classes and schedule.

The high school experience is an increasingly stressful time in the lives of young people. While students should be learning to be accountable and advocating for themselves, they need guidance to make a successful transition. The Learning Resource Program provides experienced and compassionate advisors to aid in this transition, supporting students together with their parents while empowering the students to more confidently take ownership of their experience.
